

STATE PRISON DEBACLE BY JUDGMENT

ment with the Colonial Dental Laboratories, Inc., the contractors of the State Prison for dentures and dental supplies at a price approximately 50 per cent in excess of the regular and established selling price, and that this excess was credited to his account on the books of the Colonial Dental Laboratories, Inc.

He stated that he never received checks or money from the company, but items purchased for his own use were charged to his account. In other words, through this arrangement, he was built up a credit against which he could draw in the way of materials.

RECORD SECURED
The Colonial Dental Laboratories, Inc., was visited by the State Auditor and the treasurer of the Colonial Dental Laboratories, Inc., admitted to the arrangement with Dr. MacDonald previously described in this report.

The Colonial Dental Laboratories, Inc., was visited by a representative of this department and asked to turn over the following records covering the period of Sept. 1, 1935, to March 31, 1937: Dr. MacDonald's ledger account, state price ledger account, credit memo books.

The Treasurer of the concern agreed to do this and the records were turned over with the exception of records for a certain period of time which the Treasurer said he was unable to locate and the current records, namely:

Dr. MacDonald's ledger account for the period of January 1, 1935, to April 1, 1935, and February 27, 1937, to March 31, 1937; state price ledger account for the period of October 1, 1935, to March 31, 1935, and from December 31, 1935, to March 31, 1937; credit memo books for the period of July 29, 1935, to April 7, 1935, and from December 4, 1936, to March 31, 1937.

CREDITS STUDIED
Using the ledger accounts of Dr. MacDonald, the state prison and the credit memo books for the period of time available, the amount unfavorably credited to Dr. MacDonald's account was determined to be $23,618.98.

For the period for which the records were not available the payments by the State Prison to the Colonial Dental Laboratories, Inc., were determined from the records in the Commonwealth Bureau and were found to amount to $10,924.40, and of this amount $7,715.30 was credited to Dr. MacDonald and was discharged on March 8, 1937.

The reason that the percentage ratio of 37 1/2 per cent was used was that for the period of April 1, 1935, to March 31, 1936, it appeared from the records that this was the approximate percentage of wrongful credits.

"Therefore it would appear that the excess paid by the Commonwealth to the Colonial Dental Laboratories, Inc., and fully secured by Dr. MacDonald was $33,074.94."

HEARING REQUESTED
"In conclusion it may be said that Dr. MacDonald was appointed the dentist at state prison Sept. 1, 1935, at a salary of $800 a year for three mornings a week and was discharged on March 8, 1937."

Dr. MacDonald, whose home is in Medford, has engaged counsel and has requested a public hearing. "He got a raw deal; he was improperly notified of his position and was improperly discharged under the law," said his attorney, George A. McLaughlin, in applying for the hearing two weeks ago.

More outbursts of "yammering" at the prison are expected by officials. It was learned today, as the number of inmates undergoing punishment for disturbances during the past seven days increased to seven. Officials said further outbursts would end them in deterring the leaders and clamping all into the punishment block.

POLICE READY TO ACT
Officials today took extreme precautions against any serious outbreaks or attempts to escape, while declaring, however, that such developments were not expected. Outbreaks of a serious nature, it was said, generally are staged after protracted periods of quiet, to throw officials off their guard.

Superintendent Edward W. Farnham of the Boston police and Captain Paul Kirk, head of the state police, were contacted by Major Francis J. W. Langan, warden of State Prison, and asked to be ready for any emergency call.

To assure the public, it was pointed out that at the time of the last attempt to escape, the Boston police had an adequate force on hand in three minutes, and in considerably less than 15 minutes had 100 officers at the prison.

Under a special arrangement controlled by Superintendent Farnham, the spearhead of the police department's "state prison emergency force" is dispatched from the Charlestown division, with other waves following from the other division in short order.

The effect of an outbreak is more to be feared by the prison population than by the public, with such a well-oiled system prepared in advance to meet an emergency, in the opinion of Warden Langan.

As the course of time certain personnel difficulties in the administration of the prison are to be ironed out, it was learned, but nothing will be done so long as the prisoner demonstrations are continuing.

Whether politicians outside the walls of the institution are interfering in such a way as to cause trouble within the walls is something about which prison authorities would not talk.

The fight at the prison last Wednesday between Harry Morgan and Joseph Salvo is believed to have a special significance beyond the usual clashes between prisoners.

FUNISH MORGAN
Salvo had been refused transfer to the punishment block on the basis of the assistance of a prominent politician, while Morgan, who was recommended for a pardon by wealthy Mrs. Frederick Mellon Wilson Hoadley, a relative of Andrew W. Mellon, former Secretary of the Treasury, who was attracted by Morgan's writing in the prison magazine. Both Morgan and Salvo have records of serious crime.

The next demonstration after the fight which resulted in the placing of both Salvo and Morgan in the punishment block, on bread and water, was a noisy outburst by Joseph Moriarty, alias Turkey Legs, and Francis Bennett.

These outbursts occurred in the separate cells in the Cherry Hill building in which the men are housed permanently without association with other prisoners.

The same evening "yammering" and complaints over food started in the cells in the south and west wings, the inmates having learned of the outburst by Moriarty and Bennett, who are classed as trouble-makers.

Police said they were unable to find out who started the "yammering" last night, when this was repeated shortly before 8 p. m., they detected trouble in the south wing, although it is not believed they caught the real ring-leaders.

Sergeant George Smith revealed in court that it was the Jamaica Plain girl who inadvertently revealed the whereabouts of the couple after surgery.

Detained at Peter Bent Brigham Hospital as an appendicitis man, the girl was found to be suffering from the effects of illegal surgery. Under questioning she admitted that surgery had been performed on her last January 15, police said, at the Harvard Avenue "convalescent home."

The police said, and the Boston Bay girl was found in the home in a serious condition. She was sent to City Hospital.

Clarke, at the time of his arrest was wearing a $2500 diamond ring, police said, and had more than $500 in new bills in his pockets.

His automobile, an expedition sedan, was also seized as it was parked in front of the Huntington avenue building.

Police said they discovered a specially-built compartment behind the driver's seat, and in this compartment were surgeon's tools, medicines, bandages, and other paraphernalia used in the work. Clarke is accused of doing this.

Mrs. Simpson informed friends here the dog was bitten by a snake while rabbit hunting near Mrs. Simpson's chateau near Tours, France. A special serum failed to save his life.

Mrs. Simpson said to have been deeply affected by the loss, was understood to have personally telegraphed the news to Windsor.

Officer Escapes Shot in Hunt For Gungirl

Search for blonde and attractive young Mrs. Laura Hall, South End gungirl who escaped from Sherborn Reformatory Monday, continued in an area about Wellesley and Mattuck today, after a man, accompanied by a girl answering Mrs. Hall's description, fired a shot, point blank, at a Wellesley police officer.

Patrolman Alvin F. Marchand Wellesley escaped death by inches as the bullet missed his head.

He had just surprised the gunman as the latter was apparently attempting to break into a hardware store in Church street, Wellesley.

As Marchand ducked the shot the man raced to an automobile in which a young woman and another man were sitting.

A Wellesley police cruiser gave chase, but the gunman's machine finally escaped in the direction of Mattuck and Sherborn.

Between officers fired several shots. Mrs. Hall was sentenced to Sherborn for five years and a day, after she had been convicted of armed robbery.

FAME, LOVE SMILE ON REVERE GIRL

Pretty 20-year-old Virginia Lee, formerly of Revere, had two good reasons today for being a very happy girl.

In the first place, she was back in Boston as a full-fledged star of a big-time dance act—and in the second place she was wearing a brand new and sparkling engagement ring.

She announced her what had been a secret until now, her impending marriage to Mack Lalor, senior member of the Lachapier Brothers dance team, of which she is chief feminine attraction.

Miss Lee's mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Lee of Crescent avenue, Revere, gave the news of her daughter's wedding plans exclusively to the Boston Evening American.

Quite a different young lady, Miss Lee was today, then when she started her stage career six years ago, after winning a local beauty contest.

She's a footlight favorite now here for a week-long benefit at a big downtown theater.

Between performances, she'll have a lot of family reunions to attend and a lot of confetti to exchange with her five sisters and two brothers.

THE BRIGHTER SIDE

By DAMON RUNYON

Beauty, that, as King Lear said, is the fairest of them all.

One of our prominent artists has embarked on another of those quests for that golden frail, the most beautiful American girl. It is a periodic, and popular adventure of artists, photographers, and male dressmakers. It is also the favorite pastime of some of our men-about-town.

The professional questers move with their rom-tom boots out in front. They hunt in the manner of the professional seekers. The questers, and glide around with a minimum of noise. The professional questers move with their rom-tom boots out in front. They hunt in the manner of the professional seekers. The questers, and glide around with a minimum of noise.

It is worthy of note that the prominent artist who has inaugurated the latest quest, a heading for Hollywood, our California way, a direction calculated to give rise immediately to the suspicion that he already has the phone number of the most beautiful American girl jotted down on his drawing pad.

Texas Beauties

He should have detoured by way of Texas, if only to divert suspicion from his movements. At that, he might have found the object of his search right in Fort Worth, if all the ears of the feminine beauty in that neighborhood are true.

The last time we listened to a Fort Worth man, he asserted that his town not only has the most beautiful American girl, but her twin sister.

The proprietorial is commencing to question the authority, as well as the judgment, of artists, and other professionals, in passing upon female pulchritude. From now on, it is every man for himself.

To begin with, the professionals incline too strongly to types. Types that happen to photograph well, wear clothes well, or are nice subjects for drawing and painting.

The professionals like high, low, and skimpy, of structure, whereas what the male voters of this republic, who are the ones that count in these matters, demand is a little maturity and solidity. Something they can take hold of.

And lover is beloved.
Beauty comes with feeling, if you get the idea. A pretty face may have life, and sparkle that passes for beauty with those who are too young to appreciate real beauty, but it takes that certain something in the eyes that mirror the soul to make a face truly beautiful.

We are willing to bet that the most beautiful American girl is over 25.

Chosen by Ballot

In some sections of this country, the beautiful girls are selected by ballot in what are known as beauty contests. The butcher, the baker, and the candlestick maker may be among the judges, and it seems a somewhat haphazard system, yet their judgment is probably just as good as that of the artists and photographers, and other professionals.

In these contests, the candidates usually present their charms unhampered by anything more than one-piece bathing suits. We presume this because otherwise it would be difficult to get a jury together. Few men care to spend a hot afternoon peering at a succession of lovely, if somewhat expressionless faces.

We once had the honor of serving as a judge of a beauty contest, along with three other citizens, and before the parade of the beauties started, we were approached by an old friend, who said:

"Listen, my sweetheart is in this contest, and you will do me a big favor by voting for her. She is the red-headed girl in the blue bathing suit. It will be a nice boost for me with her if she wins."

"Is she pretty?" we asked.

"She is beautiful," he said, fervently.

Other Judge's Girl

We felt that our friend either exaggerated, or over-estimated the young lady's charms when the parade passed in review, but she was at least as good as a tie with anything else in the contest.

So we cast our untrammelled ballot for her, but were defeated 3 to 1, in favor of a blonde young lady with a slight cast in one eye.

"My goodness," said one of our fellow judges, when the result became known, "we forgot to tell you we decided in advance to vote for that blonde girl. She is Herman's sweet pea."

And indicated another judge.

Our friend has not spoken to us since.

FIN. COM. HITS DOLE SUITS AS BOOMERANG

Boston is cutting its own financial throat by suing 232 other municipalities for welfare claims totaling $2,072,673.71, the finance commission charged today.

This city has broken "a gentleman's agreement," has insured the other cities and towns, and its total of claims will be "paved" only a financial mirage," the report says.

Other communities have counter-claims against Boston, the total of which is indeterminate, except by a canvass of all 232 of them, according to the commission.

And the reason for the Boston suits, it is concluded, is "an error of gross negligence and laziness" on the part of this city's welfare officials.

SAYS CITY BROKE FAITH

The situation grew out of a common practice in the state. When Boston, for example, gave welfare aid to a person living here but not entitled to such aid by reason of having been a legal resident of another community, the bill was charged to the other community.

When a legal resident of Boston was given aid in the other community, Boston was billed for the amount. The claims thus established were to be balanced from time to time.

Boston broke its word in this extrajudicial agreement not to "press" and because it did, the other communities are now ready to invoke the statute of a two-year limit for filing claims, states the report. Cited are cases of twenty cities and towns.

Brookline is being sued by Boston for $58,770.96. Brookline has counter-claims for $85,000, of which it alleges Boston has admitted $41,000.

Cambridge is being sued for $225,000.00. It has counter-claims for $100,000 and it "is unable to say how much of Boston's claim is good."

OTHER CITIES' CLAIMS

Chicopee is being sued for $506.87. It will sue Boston for $100,000 and will attack Boston's claim through the two-year statute. Lawrence, being sued for $50,043.33, alleges it owes less than $5000—less than 5 per cent of the Boston claim. Its counter-claim is approximately $4000.

Lowell, which attacked Mayor Mansfield's automobile a fortnight ago, claims that it owes this city less than $5000, although Boston has sued for $62,377.83. Lowell's bill against Boston amounts to $1,698.50.

Medford, sued for $97,831.90, asserts 90 per cent of the amount is invalid; that Boston hasn't paid Medford anything since 1932 and owes Medford $54,727.27.

Quincy is charged with $25,322.40 and says it will not invoke the two-year statute because it has claims against Boston for approximately $71,000.

Two other municipalities cited in the finance commission's report are Wintthrop and Watertown. The first town claims $20,000.00, but says only $204.75, while Boston's suit alleges $10,680.53. Wintthrop counter-claims $432.66.

Watertown is being sued for $10,144.75. It admits owing about $15,000, but counter claims approximately $2,000 and asserts it won't pay until Boston does.

No Jungle---Just Flowers

When Mrs. Martin Johnson, wife of the famous African explorer who died in an air crash last January, arrived in the North Station yesterday, a bouquet of pretty flowers and a host of admirers and friends were there to greet her. She will lecture here for three days, April 9, 10 and 11, at the Repertory Theater in a program sponsored by the Boston University Women's Council. Captain Helen Barry and members of Troop 5, Girl Scouts of Central Boston, acted as reception group.

JOB-HUNTING HERE Baffles 2 N. Y. GIRLS

Boston may be the city of culture but it's no place for two girls who want jobs.

This was the consensus of opinion of two New York girls, runaways by their own admission, picked up by police today while wandering aimlessly in Massachusetts avenue, South End.

They were Gloria Mannello, 17, of Astoria, N. Y., and Lucille Mahler, 17, of Hunters Point, Long Island.

The girls told Sergeant William Kuta and Sergeant Mark Madden of the Warren avenue station they fled away from home Sunday morning with $20 between them. They came to Boston by bus, they said, to get jobs but met with very little success.

When found by police today they had $1 left and were footsore and hungry.

Said Gloria Mannello, a sadder but wiser young girl:

"Boston may be a good city and known as the city of culture, but we cannot say that it is any place for two girls from out of the state with little money and a desire to get jobs."

After given a hearty meal they were taken to the House of Detention for safekeeping to await the arrival of their parents, who were

JUDGE BRANDS COURT PLAN 'SHOCKING'

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON
International News Service Staff Correspondent

Washington, April 8.—President Roosevelt's Supreme Court plan was condemned today as "startling, shocking and un-American" by Judge J. R. Manning of Raleigh, N. C., a voting Democrat since 1880.

The 70-year-old North Carolinian upheld the right of the Supreme Court to declare acts of legislature unconstitutional, praised the American system of majority rule and protested against any measure tending to enlarge the high tribunal in order to change its decisions.

He was followed to the witness stand at the Senate Judiciary Committee's hearings by Seligfried Hartman, of New York City, author of a revised NRA and head of the anti-Nazi boycott in this country.

URGES SPEEDY ACTION

Administration leaders in the Senate meanwhile announced they would speed final enactment of the Summers act, just passed by the House. This bill would authorize the Attorney-General to institute private suits in Federal courts, when constitutional issues are raised.

It also would authorize a direct appeal to the Supreme Court, in any case in which a Federal law is held unconstitutional by the trial court.

Senator Robinson, Democratic leader of the Senate, and Senator Ashurst (D) of Arizona, Judiciary chairman, urged early action on the bill.

PRESIDENT RECOMMENDS

They pointed out it was recommended by the President in his judicial program and that it did not conflict with the pending measure to enlarge the membership of the Supreme Court.

First of the Supreme Court plan also favored the Summers bill, Senator Van Nuys (D) of Indiana, and Wheeler (D) of Montana, heading the opposition, declared they favored its prompt enactment into law.

Senator Wheeler meanwhile announced a poll of directors of the National Farmers' Cooperative Council showed the leaders of this farm movement were overwhelmingly opposed to the President's plan.

Boy Hurt Running Errand for Sister

Because he couldn't bear to see his sister go without the stick gum she wanted on Wednesday, a 12-year-old boy in Quincy City capital today in a critical condition.

After his sister had begged throughout the afternoon for the gum, little Kevin, a penny he had and clutched in his hand, ran across Adams and Campbell streets.

He was struck by a car police said, driven by David Selbert, of North street, Dorchester.

It's No Place For Amateurs

London, April 8 (AP)—Five amateur firemen shaped their feet in the interest of science today, while an Indian "professional" came through the burning ordeal unscathed.

Ahmed Hussain, 35-year-old, Modern, whose father and grandfather were firemen before him, succeeded where the amateurs failed in an experiment conducted by the University of London Council of Physical Investigation. He walked in a pit 12 feet long, glowing with embers heated to 655 degrees Fahrenheit, without a trace of a burn on his bare feet.

Hussain passed before each of his trips which lasted one and one-half seconds.

Criminals Can't Peddle Insurance

Columbus, O., April 8 (AP)—Among bills passed by the Ohio Senate, in session today, was one prohibiting criminals and societies for the apprehension of home thieves from selling insurance.

It was introduced by Representative Fykes, who charged he bought the bill from Small and then lost $40.50 to three alleged con-men who played the board heavily. Fykes said he refused to pay the prize money because he had bought the bill for 70 cents "from a man he got rid of him."

$49 Punch Board Loss Causes Arrest

Detroit, April 8 (INS)—Lawrence J. Fykes, 37, was under arrest today for selling a punch board that had all winning numbers.

He was arrested on complaint of a gasoline station proprietor, Henry Fykes, who charged he bought the board from Small and then lost $40.50 to three alleged con-men who played the board heavily. Fykes said he refused to pay the prize money because he had bought the bill for 70 cents "from a man he got rid of him."

Born To Serve

Richman Brothers Clothes are a product of a great manufacturing and merchandising idea that was born to serve men with finer, smarter clothes for less money.

Richman Brothers created the factory-to-you method of clothes selling. Richman Brothers took their workers into partnership and gave them an incentive to do better work.

Richman's originated the one-quality, one-price idea. Richman's did away with "sales" and price manipulation, and have made it possible to buy clothes with confidence.

In short, Richman Brothers have produced a shorter, more direct, more economical way of bringing clothes from the factory to your back... a way that saves the American clothes buying public millions of dollars each year.

Richman Brothers Clothes have made a large and valuable contribution to quality, dependability and economy in clothes buying. You will be wise to make the most of it.

FIREMEN SAVE
NOTED CHURCH IN SOMERVILLE

Through heroic efforts of firemen from Somerville, Cambridge, and Everett, Arlington and Boston, St. Catherine's of Genoa, Somerville, was saved from a general alarm blaze after a general alarm blaze destroyed St. Catherine's hall, an adjacent parish structure. Damage was estimated at $10,000. Firemen watched the flames, which were visible for miles.

Greatest concern of firemen was to protect the main church building, one of the most beautiful and costly religious edifices in Massachusetts.

Also persons by the blaze were the old people's home of the Little Sisters of the Poor, St. Theresa's school and St. Catherine's rectory. St. Catherine's hall, which was destroyed, was the original church of the parish. It had recently been used as a Sunday school and social hall. The new church was built in 1920, at a cost of $50,000.

Firemen were aided by early discovery of the blaze. Neighbors saw smoke and telephoned the rectory. Reverend James V. Cronin, assistant pastor, rang in an alarm, then rushed to the church, prepared to rescue sacred objects.

Three 14-Year-Old Girls Brides in Newburyport

Newburyport, April 2 (AP)—Records of City Clerk Henry W. Little today showed that girl brides were no novelty here last year.

Three 14-year-old girls became brides of 18 and 19-year-old youths, one of them the son of a minister who married two of the couples.

On the first day of last year Helen E. Dow, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Irving Dow, of Salisbury, was married to John E. Larabee, 19, of Seabrook, N. H., by Rev. J. William L. Graham.

The second youthful marriage was that of Hazel Edgcomb, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert C. Edgcomb, of Newburyport, to David H. Terry, 18, son of Rev. and Mrs. Isaac E. Terry, of Amesbury. The bridegroom's father performed the ceremony on July 3.

On Dec. 2, Edith C. Wright, daughter of Mrs. William W. H. Wright, of Newburyport, became the bride of Walter R. Fowler, 18, son of Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Fowler, of Newburyport. Rev. Mr. Terry also united them.

800 Hershey Workers Back On Job With Legion as Guard

EARLE OPENS PROBE OF DISORDER

Hershey, Pa., April 8 (AP)—Nearly 2000 employees of the Hershey Chocolate Corporation returned to work today in the closely-guarded factory where a crowd of farmers and "loyal" workers drove out hundreds of sit-down strikers in a wild fight with whips, clubs and bars of iron.

More than a score of deputy sheriffs and members of the American Legion paced in front of the building.

Governor Earle ordered an investigation of the disorders.

In Harrisburg, Miles Sweeney, organizer for the Committee for Industrial Organization, said today:

"We have no intention of quitting at Hershey."

Sweeney said a meeting of strikers and their allies would be held at 2 p. m. tomorrow in Painesville. Committee leaders said the union would chart its course then.

During the night, the factory in which the fight occurred was dark. President William F. R. E. said today weapons of all sorts were found strewn over the floor, that little damage was done to the equipment, around which wildy screaming men and women battled for almost half an hour yesterday.

Murrie estimated that about 1800 workers returned to their jobs. He said others would come back tomorrow. The plant employs usually 3000.

WORKERS' LOSS $100,000

Murrie said in a statement that "everyone will be treated exactly alike and there will be no discrimination against anyone."

"The farmers will be given full market for their milk tomorrow," he explained.

It was the loss of this market that angered the farmers and prompted them to join non-striking employees in a march on the factory.

Murrie said he could not predict how long the deputies and Legion members would be on duty. A detail of state police was withdrawn soon after daylight.

The management of the Hershey plant estimated the employees had lost "almost $100,000" in wages since the strike was called last Friday by agents of the Committee for Industrial Organization, insisting the company violated an agreement made March 17 with the Chocolate Workers' Union for strict adherence to neutrality.

The company declared violation. Murrie said the strike cost farmers of six counties about $16,000 a day in milk sales. They supply 750,000 to 800,000 pounds a day. He said the corporation's loss "would be considerable."

The company president said John Loy, business manager for the United Chocolate Workers' affiliate of the Committee for Industrial Organization, had given up his job in the factory to assume office with the union. He added that Russell Bohman, former football player and president of the Hershey Union, would have to decide for himself whether he returned to work.

EARLE ORDERS PROBE

Bethman, Loy and other leaders were driven out of the plant, hands up, with other strikers yesterday. They were badly beaten and were attended at a hospital.

Physicians said only one of the 25 injured received at the hospital, was seriously hurt.

In Harrisburg, Governor Earle ordered an inquiry, "to fix responsibility."

Major Lynn G. Adams, superintendent of the state police, said none of the ringleaders was found last night, but that he would go to Hershey to direct the investigation.

Earle, in a statement, criticized the sheriff of Dauphin County for failing to call state police to arrest bloodshed in the riot.

The Governor said "apparently the sheriff was not an unbiased law enforcement officer," and he did not need the assistance of state police.

Witnesses estimated that 600 to 1000 strikers were driven yesterday from the vine-covered factory.

ready to organize his plants, we'll know what to do."

Ford's tactics are well known to everyone. His River Rouge plant has been and still is an armed fort. All of which, however, did not save Mr. Ford the right to operate the plant in disregard of the rights of workers to bargain collectively.

Referring to the debate now going on in the U. S. House on the labor situation, Lewis said he felt this directly concerned Ford.

"Perhaps," however, he said, "Mr. Ford is greater than the Senate and the United States Congress. We'll find all that out in due time."

Lewis minced no words in commenting on the motor magnate's statement charging unions were financed by "international bankers."

ANSWERS FORD'S CHARGES

"Either Mr. Ford was incorrectly quoted," said Lewis, "or he is very badly misinformed. Every dollar used by the Committee for Industrial Organization and raised by it comes from the sweat and labor of the workers who make up the organization."

"In speaking of the CIO," added Lewis, "and the A. F. of L.," as far as the American Federation of Labor is concerned, Lewis made this point:

"Within 60 days," he said, "emphasizing his words, 'the CIO will in numbers exceed the American Federation of Labor Union, and our figures won't be padded like those of the A. F. of L.'"

Concerning rumored reports he was clamping down on sit-down strikers, making Ford to issue a general order against them, Lewis refused to comment. But, he volunteered:

"Sit-downs are not illegal as far as organizations which do not have agreements with the CIO are concerned."

"Where companies which still employ the old methods of trying to brook their workers and deny them the right to bargain collectively under the law of the land are concerned, we're not wasting any sleep over sit-downs which may occur there," he said.

TO BAR SIT-DOWNS

Lewis, however, was emphatic on the question of sit-downs where agreements have already been signed with a CIO union.

"They will not be permitted," he said. "The CIO also has for its policy a complete and unqualified observance of signed contracts the same as the United Auto Workers Union."

"Unauthorized strikes in plants where we have agreements are illegal. They will not be tolerated. The CIO will see to it that the numbers of the union who attempt to violate signed agreements."

By the President's Supreme Court reorganization plan, he said: "The CIO is for it, wholeheartedly. It is almost a shame no decision has been given on the Wagner Labor Relations Act. Day after day goes by and there is still no action."

"As long as five corporation lawyers are to control the Supreme Court continue as justice, we must expect such things to continue. It is the action of a tyrannical autocracy. My position on that is quite definite."

Asked how he would expect a possible favorable decision on the Wagner Act in view of this attitude, Lewis remarked:

"The courts might make a error."

Ford Bars All Unions in Plants

Worcester, Mass., April 8 (AP)—Henry Ford's long opposition to organized labor was crystallized today in a declaration that the Ford Motor Company "will never recognize the United Automobile Workers Union or any other union."

Ford, in an interview at his winter home yesterday, also listed at sit-down strikers saying:

"Those who seize property not their own are in the same category as housebreakers. The politicians who are elected as our public servants are policemen in a sense and should protect our rights."

There have been rumors he might allow any strike-closed plants to remain shut indefinitely, invoking his resources to oust the workers.

REFUSE TO JOIN CIO UNIONS

Washington, April 8 (AP)—William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, said today he would call a special meeting of the Federation's executive council soon to consider expulsion of John L. Lewis' unions.

Senate to Probe Kentucky Warfare

Washington, April 8 (AP)—The Senate civil liberties committee announced today it would open Wednesday an inquiry into "the long history of violence in the Harlan County, Ky., coal mining area."

Japanese Warnships Crash

Ultimatums in New Labor Crisis

HENRY FORD:

"We'll never recognize the United Automobile Workers' Union or any other union... Any of our workers who strike will be led out of the plant involved. But we won't hold any grudge against them and would rehire them. We would regret taking such action because we know the men are simply being duped by the leaders and coerced... Those who seize property not their own are in the same category as housebreakers. The politicians who are elected as our public servants are policemen in a sense, and should protect our rights."

JOHN L. LEWIS:

"I have no doubt that Henry Ford will change his mind about not recognizing the union. He will continue on his present course just as long as his employers permit him... I want Ford workers to organize. But tell them to wait until they are organized before they try to organize in conversation with Henry... In the next few years labor will see to it that more persons understanding the needs and rights of labor are in the high seats of government... Labor is on the march, under the banner of CIO."

FORD PLANTS IN 30 U. S. CITIES, 28 COUNTRIES

Detroit, April 8 (AP)—The Ford Motor Company has industrial enterprises in more than 30 cities in the United States and operates in at least 28 foreign countries.

In addition to automotive plants the holdings extend to railroads, mines, rubber plantations, farms, shipping and numerous other enterprises.

The center of activity is the parent concern at Dearborn and River Rouge, in the Detroit area.

From this hub the Ford empire radiates to all parts of the world—England, Ireland, Holland, Belgium, France, Turkey, Greece, Spain, Italy, Rumania, Portugal, Germany, Denmark, Sweden, Finland, Canada, Brazil, Cuba, Mexico, Uruguay, Chile, China, India, Egypt, Japan, South Africa and Australia.

In Russia, Ford operates under an arrangement with the Soviet Union.

In the United States, Ford operations have extended to Atlantic, Buffalo, Cincinnati, Cleveland, Chester, Pa., Dallas, Denver, Edgewater, N. J.; Houston, Hesperia, Ill.; Jacksonville, Fla.; Kansas City, Long Beach, Cal., Louisville, Memphis, Milwaukee, New Orleans, Norfolk, Oklahoma City, Omaha, Pittsburgh, Richmond, Cal., Seattle, Somerville, Mass., St. Paul, Minneapolis, St. Louis and other cities.

Attack on Court HALTS PROGRESS OF Security Market

By LEWIS HANEY
Professor of Economics, New York University
New York, April 8.—As I diagnose the reaction that has come in securities and commodities, it has several causes or occasions, as follows:

(1)—In the first place, it should be noted that the security markets have made no sustained progress since the attack on the Supreme Court began.

(2)—Then came the weakening of the government bond market. There was a little tightening of money rates, but hardly enough to see with the naked eye. Plainly, government credit was somewhat shaken.

The subsequent disclosure of the Treasury's need to borrow, and the effecting of increased reserve requirements by the return to open market operations, both caused additional weakness.

(3)—At the same time, or a little earlier, investors began to have doubts concerning further increases in corporation profits. Probably these arose chiefly from the labor situation. There is also the problem of trying to sell products at prices high enough to cover the rise in operating expenses.

The prospects of an increased tax burden, made necessary by government spending and an unbalanced budget, fit in here.

(4)—Next came misgivings concerning the speculative rise in commodity prices. The rise was so rapid in some cases as to remind one of the past boom peaks. On top of that, fears arose that the "rearmament demand" might not continue, and talk of "peace moves" increased these fears.

The President's attack upon steel and copper prices probably caused some buyers to hesitate. Finally, the persistent talk about reducing the paper-dollar price of gold took effect.

The London metal markets reacted, bringing reactions in the domestic prices of lead and copper.

But when all is said, I am of the opinion that pessimism has become too deep. I believe that in most of the foregoing matters the forces making for money prices remain unimpaired, and that what we have been witnessing is a sort of "technical reaction." When the "technical position" is "corrected," the rise will probably be resumed. (For example, the last mark-up in copper to 17 cents seemed uncalled for; now it is gone.)

We are in the midst of a world-wide inflation, based upon depreciated currencies. It was touched off when the "gold bloc" went off gold last year.

It has been made more effective by European rearmament and American "reflex" spending. Both kinds of unproductive spending will continue. War seems likely to be postponed, but that will not stop preparations for war. The more outrageous of the new demands upon our treasury seem likely to be turned down; but that will not balance the budget.

As for the whole, it seems to me that the labor situation is rather better than has been feared by many. The coal strike and the Chrysler strike have been settled in a way that indicates that the labor leaders have themselves "under control."

There will be much surprise if the government, after precipitating this reaction, ventures to go ahead with any really deflationary measures, such as reducing its price for gold.

In general, hesitation in buying, rather than liquidating sales, has been the chief factor. Such selling pressure as has been exerted, has been in the nature of speculative "profit taking" and short selling. The underlying forces continue to make selected goods and securities preferable to currency.

RECORD G. M. SALES

New Peak for March Is Set

New York, April 8 (AP)—New sales records were set by General Motors Corporation in March, the company reported today.

March sales of cars to dealers in the United States and Canada plus shipments overseas totaled 260,965 units, a new monthly record.

This compares with 247,907 units in February and 198,721 in March, 1936. The previous peak month was December, when 229,111 units were sold, and the previous record March was in 1929 with 220,591 cars.

World sales for the first three months in 1937, however, added 439,290 units compared with 500,167 for the same period in 1936. The lower first quarter this month reflected the temporary shutdown of operations due to the strike.

Sales to consumers in the United States totaled 167,053 cars, a record for March, topping the previous March record of 147,282 made last year.

Consumers sales in February averaged 61,600 cars, and in the first quarter this year sales to consumers totaled 182,450 in the like 1936 period.

Dealers in the United States sold 216,606 cars in March, also a new monthly record, when 229,111 units were sold, and the previous record March was in 1929 with 220,591 cars.

The previous monthly high in sales to U. S. dealers was made in December, last, with 197,053 cars. Sales in February, 1937, totaled 40,474 in the like 1936 period, and in this year sales averaged 37,181 compared with 41,034 a year ago.

MOST ISSUES
HIGHERNew York, April 8.—
The stock market turned in a highly erratic session today in the wake of Wednesday's heavy sell-off, moving into the early afternoon with a generally firm tone.After opening 1 to more than 3 points higher, the market slumped as selling was fueled off in the motors and steels, and the highest ticker fell five minutes behind for a time. Losses ran to more than 3 points in Chrysler.As noon approached, however, a brisk movement got underway, and the majority of issues again climbing above previous closing levels.Chrysler led the advance, its stock jumping 14 points higher, to 134, for a net loss of 3, then snapped back to just under 130, General Motors from top of 60, fell to 58, then moved above 60, to a small gain.U. S. Steel Firm U. S. Steel went from 113 1/2 to 110, and later back to almost 113, for a net loss of 1 1/2 points. Bethlehem showed a small gain and Republic a small loss.Rail shares, after wide fluctuations, closed at a net loss. N. Y.
Central opened a point higher, but sold off to 109, while other railroads were steady to slightly higher. Aviation closed 1/2 point lower.Coca-Cola slipped 6 points at the close. The company was off
2 1/2 at its low.Bonds were mixed in trade, as a government suffered additional losses running to 3/4 of a point in some cases. Grand Central more than a cent converted into equivalents. Cotton lost
1/4 of a cent.Timely Topics

BOSTON DOCTOR CHIEF SPEAKER AT HARVARD

A Boston boy is occupying the spotlight at the annual convention of American Anthropologists at Harvard University this week. He is Dr. Harry L. Shapiro of Dorchester, who has gained fame by his studies on the Pitcairn Islands and tests on "Mongrel Races."

Dr. Shapiro was graduated from Boston Latin School in 1919 with high honors, winning the Spanish Medal for general excellence. As a student at Harvard, Dr. Shapiro received many scholarship awards, gaining a Deter Book Prize, the John Harvard Scholarship and the Thaw Fellowship as an undergraduate. Dr. Shapiro in his senior year after being appointed a Tutor in Anthropology, was awarded the Yale Fellowship, the Bishop Museum Prize.

As a Bishop Museum Fellow Dr. Shapiro made his first trip to Pitcairn Island in 1923, but twice was refused permission to land as were all visitors. Indignant he sought out the other section of the island—Norfolk Island, where the second group of mutineer descendants settled in 1858.

He remained on Norfolk Island for some time gathering data and making friends. Returning to New York he went to work at the American Museum of Natural History.

FIRST BOOK
He published a book on this group in 1929. Embarking for the South Seas in 1934, Dr. Shapiro obtained permission from the High Commissioner of the Islands, and landed on Pitcairn ground in September of 1934.

For the natives friendly, Dr. Shapiro made a complete study of the history and characteristics of the inhabitants.

The Pitcairn Islander according to Dr. Shapiro, is not actually with the average small village in America. He is shy in one sense, but as he is wary of a stranger, but as very friendly once an acquaintance is made.

Pitcairn folk are led by Perkins Christian, descendant of the famed Father Christian, who led the natives on the "Boats" Christian according to Dr. Shapiro, is a very impressive figure, being a leader in social business and legal affairs.

Dr. Shapiro considers it typical of the average descendant of the Pitcairn folk.

The natives speak a combination of English and Tahiti, but have a better-than-average command of English.

LECTURES TONIGHT
Dr. Shapiro will be the speaker on the Pitcairn group at the text for his lecture at the convention tonight. He plans another trip to the island shortly but regardless of where he goes he says:

"The old Hub city is still foremost in my mind. As often as I can I get back here and, probably no matter where I go, I always venture back to this, my native harbor."

DR. PRICE TO SPEAK
Dr. Weston A. Price of Cleveland was to address today's gathering of the anthropologists on "The Changes in Dental Arch Form in Native Groups Following the Adoption of Modernized Foods."

A full forum on the dental growth and dental occlusion relationship has been arranged and speakers will be delivered by Dr. E. L. Stenton and Dr. S. Goddard of New York University, Dr. Herbert L. Matzke of Harvard, Professor Lawrence W. Baker of Harvard, Dr. C. T. Nelson of Harvard, Dr. Robert Brown of the Luskavik Museum of South Africa.

Following the afternoon session the meeting will reconvene at the Institute of Geographical Exploration, on Dixieville avenue, Cambridge.

ANNUAL DINNER
Tomorrow's session will be addressed by seven noted scientists. Cranium formations of every race, dietary effect and infant mortality will be discussed.

Tomorrow evening the annual dinner of the society will be held. Chief speaker will be Professor W. L. H. F. Petersen of the University of Illinois. Other speakers will be Dr. Anna Hrdlicka of the United States National Museum, Prof. F. C. C. Connolly of the Catholic University of America, Professor Lawrence W. Baker of the Harvard Dental School, and Professor D. B. Dill of the Harvard Pathology Laboratory.

MORE AND MORE BOSTONIANS are replacing other-type refrigerators with SERVEL ELECTROLUX

It's permanently silent . . . saves you money year after year because its freezing system has NO MOVING PARTS

AMONG Bostonians, Servel Electrolux has enthusiastic admirers by the thousands. And each year sees the number grow.

For owners tell friends . . . and the word travels . . . "You get more years of silent, money-saving service with this modern refrigerator. It has no moving parts in its freezing system!"

Servel Electrolux has no moving parts—and needs none—because a tiny gas flame does all the work. It circulates the refrigerant, which produces constant food-preserving cold and cubes of ice . . . unfailingly. There is no friction, no noise, no wear.

This matchless simplicity quickly sets Servel Electrolux apart from every other refrigerator. And as a result of it, you enjoy longer, more satisfying performance—continued savings on food bills, operating cost and upkeep throughout its long life.

See the beautiful 1937 Servel Electrolux models at any gas company showroom. Discover how easy it is to own this modern gas refrigerator on an easy purchase plan.

Starting April 15th—See "TIME MARCH OF TIME," sponsored by Servel Electrolux—WEEI—Thursday evenings, 10:30 P.M.

IF YOU'RE A HOME OWNER

Mrs. F. H. Hill, of 105 Mount St., says: "I wouldn't trade my Servel Electrolux for anything else. It has made my life so much easier. I can't tell you how much I enjoy it. It's so quiet and so efficient. I can't imagine life without it now."

IF YOU'RE A BUILDER OR REAL ESTATE OPERATOR

George A. Morris, Trustee of the Plymouth Realty Trust, 50 Franklin St., Boston, says: "We have installed Servel Electrolux refrigerators in our properties. We have found many other makes thoroughly. To us, the importance of a refrigerator was that it has no moving parts. We felt that a different, simpler method of operation would give us long service and low maintenance costs. That has proved 100% right."

IF YOU'RE A TENANT

Miss V. G. Hill, of 105 Mount St., says: "I have lived in a small apartment for many years. I have never had a refrigerator before. I am so glad I have one now. It's so quiet and so efficient. I can't imagine life without it now."

Aldrich Clan Busy With Plans For Trip to Coronation

By BETTY ALDEN

PAGEANTRY AND CEREMONY, especially ceremonial costumes, will occupy the interest of the Aldrich clan for the next month or so. All this week Mrs. Lucy T. Aldrich of New York has an exhibit of her private collection of Japanese ceremonial costumes, priest robes and porcelain figures, at the Rhode Island School of Design, and most of her kinfolk are down there looking it over.

As soon as the exhibit closes, the family will devote its attention to getting ready for a trip to England to witness the largest and most brilliantly costumed pageant of the decade.

Mr. and Mrs. William T. Aldrich of Brookline, brother and sister-in-law of Miss Aldrich, are doing things a bit differently than a great many of the Americans going over to witness the Coronation. They have leased a house in Newbury, a country village outside of London, where they will temporarily become a British squire and his lady, entertaining visiting relatives and friends from the States as most of their British neighbors will be doing.

Mrs. Aldrich and Mrs. N. Stuart Campbell were among the Boston members of the clan driving down to Providence, Tuesday, for the tea which Mrs. John D. Rockefeller, Jr., gave to open the exhibit. Mrs. Rockefeller, Miss Aldrich and Mrs. Campbell are sisters.

The William Aldrichs are sailing for England aboard the Queen Mary, and with them will be daughter, Abigail Aldrich, and Peggy Turner, daughter of the Howard Turners of Cambridge. George Aldrich, their son, is planning to join them for the Coronation day and the N. Stuart Campbells with their daughter, Helena, are also going over to increase the family party.

Abigail has been a pretty regular attendant at the Opera this week, where she finds nearly every one she chats with is also Coronation-bound. So great is the enthusiasm and anticipation of our first families for the Wagnerian operas included in this season's repertoire, that the opera-goers took special heed of the warning that last evening's performance began at 7:30. Hardly anyone arrived late, even though the curtains went up at the time when they are usually accustomed to sitting down to dinner.

The performance lasted four hours, making the early dinner seem like such ancient history that the first thought of most everyone, as they climbed back into limousines and taxis, was to find the nearest place to get a sandwich and a cup of coffee.

Steals Fashion Laurels

EVERY NIGHT there are a few gowns which seem to take the spotlight from all the rest, and last evening it was Mrs. H. Wendell Endicott who stole the show on the dark side of the footlights. Her gown was of soft white tulle with a wide sash of violet velvet, and small clusters of violets strewn over the wide skirt. Her wrap was a full length fitted affair of white velvet with a deep collar of white fox.

Another lovely costume was that of Mrs. George S. West, whose gown was a sheer floating affair of gold chiffon with numerous shirred panels forming the skirt, and with it she wore her white ostrich cape. Mrs. West's costume received innumerable flattering comments on her dress of soft pink tulle with a long sleeved redingote of black lace, made of hundreds of small circles, like spider webs, all sewed together.

Mrs. Robert Salmon, Jr., and her sister, Sue Ayer, wore a chat with their cousins, Joanna and Johnny Paley, outside one of the boxes, and later had a greeting for their uncle, John Paley, who strolled along with his famous daughter, Sarah (Mrs. Marshall) Paley, Jr.

Mrs. J. Gardner Bradley's novel little cape appealed to many fashion-wise feminine eyes as she strolled up the aisle. It was made of tiny ruffles, all colors of the rainbow, and was particularly effective with her electric-blue net gown. Mrs. Lawrence Lombard, in gleaming white satin with diamond clips, sat with Mr. Lombard in a party with the Endicotts and Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Bell.

Enthusiastic About Wagnerian Music

A LONG, DRAMATIC STOLE of white ermine hugged the shoulders of Olga Monk's long black velvet cape, with which she wore a tiara of large pearls set in gold. Mr. and Mrs. Edward Taft were more than enthusiastic about the glorious Wagnerian music and Mrs. Robert Stevenson scored another mark in her record of appearing in a lovelier creation each night. This time it was a black gown with layer upon layer of deep fringe, with pearls for contrast, and her silver fox cape.

Cellulose was used most effectively to achieve a sparkle in Dorothy Cornish's white feather stole. Little stripes of it were mingled in with the feathers, and her white gown was studded with brilliants. Agnes Osborne stole a march on the friends who would have liked to chat with her, and enjoyed her intermission smoke way down at the end of the lobby, where she could read her libretto in peace and quiet. Mrs. Francis Welch wore an all-green outfit, Lavinia Sabine was in black with silver lace trimming, Mary Elizabeth Lowe in gold satin with brown velvet around the top of the bodice, Louise Harding in peach brocade and Gertrude McKinley Jay in champagne chiffon.

HARRIOTT COLE, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Cole of North Andover, a member of Junior League and Vincent Club, will play the part of a pompous general in the Junior League's forthcoming play, "The Emperor's New Clothes," to be produced April 24 at the Peabody Playhouse.

HOPE HUBBARD

OTHER MEMBERS of the League who are learning parts for the spring dramatic production are Hope Hubbard, who will play the part of a character with the intriguing monosyllabic name of "Zaz," and Mrs. Thatcher P. Luquer of Cambridge who has been cast as the dainty, alluring Empress. Miss Hubbard is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joshua Hubbard of Weyland. Mrs. Luquer lives in Cambridge.

Philomatheia Honors Mrs. Vincent Roberts

What was going to be a just another weekly bridge for the Philomatheia turned out to be a most welcome home for the club's president, Mrs. Vincent P. Roberts, who has just returned from a round-the-world cruise.

And what a gracious guest of honor! Mrs. Vincent P. Roberts, who has just returned from a round-the-world cruise, was the guest of honor at the club's meeting.

'Siegfried' Delights Opera Patrons

Wagnerian Stars Score

By RUTH MARSTERS

In the Metropolitan Opera Association's presentation of "Siegfried" last evening in the Boston Opera House, the evening's program was a triumph for the Wagnerian stars.

As in each performance in the Metropolitan's Wagnerian program of the Ring cycle, it was a triumph for the Wagnerian stars. The evening's program was a triumph for the Wagnerian stars.

That the enthusiasm with which the audience had anticipated the event was thoroughly rewarded was evidenced by the fact that the performance was a triumph for the Wagnerian stars.

The characterizations of the figures with a business and a dramatic spirit that added to the performance were not less than a triumph for the Wagnerian stars.
